

See How Our School is Doing

Ohio's New Local Report Cards

Just as Indian Lake Schools sends home a report card to tell you how well your child is learning, our school also gets a Local Report Card each August from the Ohio Department of Education. This report tells our school and parents if we are doing a good job of educating our students. You can see our most recent report card at reportcard.education.ohio.gov.

If you have seen these reports in past years, you may have noticed something different. The old report card that used terms such as "Excellent" and "Continuous Improvement" to rate schools has been discontinued. Our school now gets letter grades of A-F on nine ways of measuring school success. One of our new letter grades is for "overall student progress."

These letter grades should give you a clearer picture of how our school is doing. Over the next two years, the department of education will add new ways of measuring how well we are serving our students. Starting in August 2015, our school and others will get grades on 18 items in six categories. We also will get an overall letter grade. Similar report cards will be published for our school district as a whole.

We do not know yet what our overall grade will be in two years. But please know that the teachers and support staff at Indian Lake are always working to improve our teaching and your child's learning.

You can learn more about Local Report Card grades and how they are determined at the website link above. If you have questions or concerns about our school's performance in any of the areas listed on the report card, please contact any of the building principals.
